Joining the Department of Social Work, The Oxford College of Arts was not by choice but I would rather say that it was by fate. I had both good and bad times in the college, days of laughter and regrets too. But most importantly the Department of Social Work has been an eye opener for me and it has allowed me to start a new journey. I had the opportunity to experience many new things and learn from experienced people about the field of Social Work. I am currently serving as the President of "PRISM CLUB" a small club formed by collective individuals with a common interest to bring change in our society with special regard to education and HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention. In my day to day work, my Oxford days experience has been very helpful and I am glad that I joined the Department of Social Work, The Oxford College of Arts as it has made me what I am today.
