EDUCATIONAL VISIT TO BRAIN MUSEUM
NAME OF THE CO-ORDINATOR- MS. MAHIMASHWINI N

On April 9, 2025, a group of 15 Undergraduate Psychology students from The Oxford College of Arts visited the Brain Museum at the National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS), Bengaluru, as part of an educational initiative organized by the Psychology Department.

The purpose of the visit was to deepen the students' understanding of brain anatomy and neuropsychological concepts through direct observation and expert guidance. The Brain Museum, renowned for its extensive collection of preserved human brain specimens, offered a rare opportunity for students to visualize and comprehend the structure and function of the human brain.

During the guided tour, students were introduced to various brain specimens illustrating neurological conditions, developmental abnormalities, and the effects of trauma and disease. The experts at NIMHANS provided insightful explanations, connecting theoretical concepts with real-life examples, thus enhancing the students' academic and clinical perspectives.

The visit was a successful and impactful educational experience, aligning with the department's objective to promote experiential learning and academic exploration beyond the classroom.

'VIKAASA', the E Magazine 2024 of Department of Social Work was released on this occasion, by the dignitaries.

About the Session:

Experiences that are emotionally painful and distressing, which overwhelm an individual's ability to cope, and may affect mental, physical, social, emotional, and spiritual well-being (WHO).

Trauma-informed care is a strengths-based service delivery approach that emphasizes physical, psychological, and emotional safety for both providers and survivors, and creates opportunities for survivors to rebuild a sense of control and empowerment (Hopper, Bassuk and Olivet 2010).

The first Session was conducted by Prof. Naoki Nakamura, Associate Professor, Hokkaido University, Japan on Trauma Informed Care in Japan. He threw light on the factors determining various trauma and responses to it, in Japan. In the second session, Dr. Mutharaju Arelingaiah Psychiatric Social Work Professional Project Manager, Project SAMA Dept. of Psychiatric Social Work, NIMHANS, Bengaluru elaborated on Indian Perspectives of Trauma Informed Care. He provided insight on prevalence of various traumas in India, the socio cultural factors affecting it and trauma informed care interventions. Both the sessions were insightful and all the participants were much engaged in the session.

The psychology students from Krupanidhi Degree College, MSW students from PG centre Ramanagara and Department of Social Work Bangalore University, MSW Students from SEA College actively participated enthusiastically in the symposium.

CANCER DAY AWARENESS AND SCREENING EVENT

COORDINATED BY- MRS ASHWINI M
IN COLLABORATION WITH: The Oxford Medical College and Research Centre

Date: 24/02/2025
Time: 10.30 AM- 03.30 PM
Venue: Auditorium

Inaugural Programme:

The session was inaugurated by Dr. Rajiv Saxena, Physican, The Oxford Medical College and Research Centre, Ms. Leela, Management Representative of the Oxford Institutions, Dr. Lalith Hiremath and Dr. Vedavathi, Physicians, The Oxford Medical College and Research Centre., Dr. Bhvaneshwari, The Principal., The Oxford College of Science, Arts and Management were the dignitaries on the dais.

Session :

In observance of world cancer day 2025, the Department of Social Work, The Oxford College of Arts, in association with Oxford Medical College and Research Centre, organized a session on Cancer Awareness for the students and faculty of the Oxford College of Arts, HSR Layout, Bangalore. Dr. Lalitha Hiremath and Dr. Vedavathi, from The Oxford Medical College and Research Centre conducted a useful and informative session on diagnosis, causes, treatment and prevention of cervical, breast and lung cancer.

It has been observed that Cancer happens to be one of the highest occurring life threatening non-communicable diseases in India. Early detection and timely treatment could restrict the morbidity and mortality of this disease. Life style factors are increasingly responsible for this disease, among all genetic and other factors. Hence the Awareness and Screening at this juncture was a conscious effort by the department to educate the students through them, reaching a larger community.

The participants were given a demonstration through a video on self-screening of breasts, in order identify the symptoms and arrest the same. They were also apprised of various preventive measures in day to day life.

50+ women were screened for the PAP test against cervical cancer along with a separate screening for breast cancer.

The whole event was conducted successfully, with active participation by students and faculty and including non-teaching staff, who utilized the session to be more aware of this alarming disease.

tactical skills. Chess matches were particularly engaging, with participants displaying deep concentration and strategic thinking. Carrom and table tennis also attracted a significant number of players, with intense and closely fought matches keeping the audience engaged.

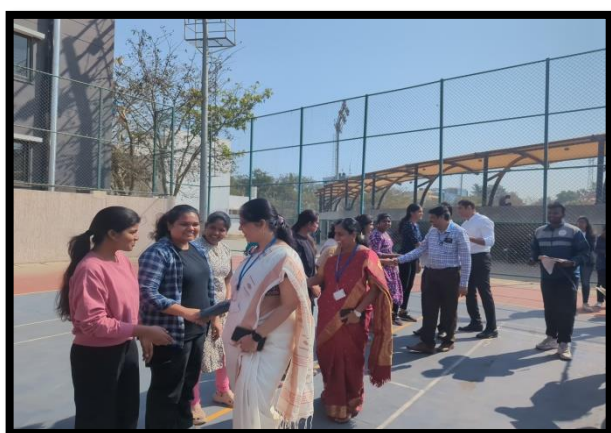

One of the most commendable aspects of the event was the exceptional sportsmanship displayed by all participants. Regardless of the outcome, students cheered for one another, fostering a positive and motivating environment. The event also provided an opportunity for students from different departments to interact, strengthening inter-departmental relationships and collaboration.

All the staff members not only attended and encouraged the students and also staff members also played through ball matches between science, arts, and management faculty members. At the last arts staff members won against management in final. Arts staff members unabatedly won in final. As the day progressed, the excitement continued to build, culminating in the much-awaited prize distribution ceremony. Prof. Gayathri Sudhir and Prof Gayathri. Y felicitated the winners and runners-up with medals and certificates, acknowledging their hard work and determination. Special recognition was given to students who showcased exceptional talent and leadership during the games.

The event concluded on a high note, with participants and faculty members appreciating the efforts of the Centre for Physical Education in organizing such a well-coordinated and successful event. The Inter Department Indoor and Outdoor Games not only provided a break from academic rigor but also reinforced the significance of sports in students' overall development. The event ended with a promise to continue fostering a culture of sports and fitness within the institution.

Overall, the Inter Department Games 2025 proved to be an exhilarating and memorable experience for all, leaving students motivated and eager for the next edition.
