

Chandrima Mondal

GREAT COLLEGE

While being in the college, we used to crib about 75% mandatory attendance and strict rules around it but once you are out of college to face the real world you realize that college turns you into a better and much more disciplined person than you were before. So it is a blessing in disguise. However, the faculties are so friendly and have well-enriched knowledge. It gives us a great platform to showcase our talents and polish our potential.