

Namaskara!

An Alumni of The Oxford College of Arts, class of 2016-18; My name is Brenda T. Namangolwa from Namibia in Southern Africa. I am currently a Social Welfare Officer in Social Protection Department of Ministry of Gender Equality, Poverty Eradication and Social Welfare. I also an occasional Social Worker at Court through a UNODC and Ministry of Justice Namibia's Court Support and Preparation of GBV Witness program. I am most importantly, a product of The MSW Department's efforts. I had always aspired to be a Social Worker and The Oxford College of Arts via MSW Department headed by Dr. Shashidhar under the principal's office, nurtured those aspirations to reality and I am thankful. It was The MSW Department which had actually exposed me to the skills and knowledge of performing through any diverse society. And these skills and knowledge will age with me and that's a blessing. My utmost gratitude goes to Dr. Shashidhar who opened my mind to always operate like a winner and for the continued support- I am really grateful Sir. My kind hearted Teachers: Mr Naveen Reddy and Mrs. Ashwini, I decree good health for you. For most of my classmates, pardon me for having thought that you were annoying first! But truly now, I can attest how having shared a class with you had molded my strength, courage and patience. India overall, is a cherishable journey and I am thankful to all those that were part of it with me.

May God continue blessing us all
