PREAMBLE

This Guest Lecture was conducted by Department of pharmacology, and explained in detail about the benefits of the social media tools and software in research. The program was inaugurated by Principal Dr. Padmaa. M Paarakh. The guest talk was given by Dr. K M Ravi Kumar, Director, The Oxford Group of Institutions. The Guest explained the importance of social media in research. 60 students participated in the session. Social media platform play an important role in research, education, and clinical practice. As an inseparable part of open science, these platforms may increase the visibility of research outputs and facilitate scholarly networking. Social media platforms are essential for dissemination of information and engagement of scholars in science communication. With upgrades of online tools and the emergence of various digital technologies over the past decade, it has become easier to generate online information and reach scholars worldwide. Various digitized items, including articles, books, images, and videos, have become common objects for knowledge dissemination and professional discussion on specially designed networking sites. Students, researchers, and journal editors are now offered a wide variety of public and closed networking sites for voicing their concerns, learning, and undertaking research. He also added that the global market of drugs and medical technologies has also embraced the emerging opportunities to expand their online presence and actively promote various products. Vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Nagalakshmi, Assistant Professor, Department of Pharmacology. At the end of the session the feedback was taken from the participants.

PERMEABLE

This workshop was conducted by Dr. Jyoti Shrivastava, HOD, Department of pharmaceutical chemistry and explained in detail about the benefits of this software. Software is aimed for pharmacy and chemical engineering undergraduate students. The software can also be used by the students of paramedical courses such as nursing, medical laboratory technology and physiotherapy etc. 85 students attended the session. This is a computer assisted learning package containing various programs which helps in molecular docking. And these programs can be used to demonstrate molecular modelling and molecular interactions. The package is user friendly, highly interactive which make simulation appear realistic. The teacher told students that, it can be used by IV B. Pharm and M. Pharm students in the regular practical. Principal Dr. Padmaa inaugurated the program. M. Paarakh and Mrs. Suvarna Lakshmi, Assistant Professor, Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry presented the vote of thanks. At the end of the session the feedback was taken from the participants.

BELOW ACTIVITIES CAN BE PERFORMED USING AUTO DOCK VINA:

- By using this software, we can analyse diverse types of docking including site-specific, blind docking, protein-ligand, etc.
- Besides docking, Auto dock Vina (Auto dock Tools) helps in editing protein and ligands including their structure modifications.
- It is used to screen large or small libraries of molecules.
- It is easily accessible on Linux as well as on Windows.
- The GUI of Auto dock Tools helps can be used to visualize interactions between the receptor and the ligand.
- It can be used to analyse the docking results.
- Easy conversion of PDB to PDBQT format.
- It is used to perform rigid as well as flexible docking.
- Easy analysis of virtual screening results.

When the Values of Dependent Variable is only known:

- ✓ Imagine that values of Biological Activity arising from 7 different experiments are given.
- ✓ In such a situation you would predict the BA based on the mean value.
- If we plot,
  - ❖ BA on Y-axis.
  - ❖ No. of Experiments on X-axis and the mean value is 8.
  - ❖ There being no value for X i.e.,  $X=0$

Computational Chemistry

- The cost of research and development of a single new drug would be in the range of 2.6 billion dollars or 260 crores in rupee terms.
- This cost includes the cost of failures of the thousands and sometimes millions of compounds that might be synthesised and screened early in the R&D (Research and Development) process.

PREAMBLE

The Department of Pharmaceutics conducted the webinar on “ICT computing skills on digitization of Pharma industries challenges & opportunities” for the students, scholars and teaching faculties. There were totally around 129 participants, from various other institutions which included faculties, research scholars, undergraduates and post graduates. Dr. Rajkumar Al and delivered the lecture. The content delivered in the webinar is as follows: The impact and use of digital platforms in the field of pharmacy was discussed in this session. The Speaker of the Session Dr. Rajkumar Aland presented the keynote address on “DIGITALIZATION OF PHARMA INDUSTRIES: CHALLENGES & OPPORTUNITIES”. Digitization allows companies to fully integrate their supply chains and improve operational processes, making them more adaptive and responsive. Given the rapid pace of change in technology, pharma companies need to make digitization of their operations and supply chain a priority, starting today. Digitalization of any manufacture industry is a key step in any progress of the production process. The process of digitalization includes both increased use of robotics, automatization solutions and computerization, thereby allowing to reduce costs, to improve efficiency and productivity, and to be flexible to changes. Digitalization in PI can bring several advantages like reduced production costs, improved quality reduced capacity restrictions. While the use of a digital platform can improve processes in a variety of ways, including data collection, real-time sharing of trial results, and the capacity to track various aspects of productions. Also, the feedback about the session was collected from all the participants to improve the sessions that will be conducted in the mere future.

This programme was arranged in the motive of sharing the knowledge and practical experience of Dr. Rajkumar Aland, who has a long year of experience in pharmaceutical research field and in the industry. INDIAN PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY

- Now that the era of conventional small molecule blockbuster medicines is about to end, the big pharma focus is shifting towards high value but lower volume products such as biomedicines, orphan drugs and advanced medical devices.
- The increasing price pressure caused by the tightening market, regulations and patent expirations is forcing pharma companies to challenge their current product and market strategies in order to survive.
- New technologies and innovations are already enabling pharma companies to improve medicine development and patient care.
- Currently, Digitalisation is fundamentally changing the healthcare industry.
- The Pharma industry, as a core part of healthcare, is no exception to this.

STRATEGIC OF DIGITAL VISION

The digital strategy would involve following elements:

- IT and Digital teams to embrace business trajectory and get embedded in business planning and execution.
- Each critical area in the value chain - research & development (eLNR/QbD), manufacturing (eBMR) & quality (ePAT), supply chain (SAP), sales & marketing (MIS), digital communications (e-marketing), advanced financial analytics & control - ought to clearly define the approach for digitalized operations.
- Specific goals which are embedded in business and are time-bound, give much-needed sense of urgency to the digitization roadmap.
- Tactical choices to be made in terms of specific Enterprise resource planning (ERP) platform, implementation partners, pilot vs full implementation and so on I, or SAP, TMS, etc.

PREAMBLE

The Department of Pharmaceutics, The Oxford College of Pharmacy under IQAC conducted the webinar on “In Vivo & In Vitro Considerations in The Dosage Form Development” for the students, scholars, and teaching faculties. There were around 282 participants, from various other institutions which included faculties, research scholars, undergraduates, and postgraduates. Ramana Murthy, K.V., Ph.D. Senior Professor (Stage 6) & Principal (Retired) A.U. College of Pharm. Sciences, Andhra University, delivered the lecture. The content delivered in the webinar is as follows:

The speaker of the session Dr Ramana Murthy presented the keynote address on “In Vivo & In Vitro Considerations in The Dosage Form Development”. He briefed the participants with the basic concept of biopharmaceutics and explained the mechanism of drug absorption along with the different factors affecting the absorption. He also explained the BCS classification, its importance for the selection of drugs for the formulation and discussed about biopharmaceutical hurdles in drug development. He emphasized on the in-vitro --vivo correlation (IVIVC) which has been defined by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration as "a predictive mathematical model describing the relationship between an in-vitro property of a dosage form and an in-vivo response", which has tremendously eased the development of formulation. Generally, the in-vitro property is the rate or extent of drug dissolution or release while the in-vivo response is the plasma drug concentration or amount of drug absorbed. In vitro and in vivo studies provide valuable information for all stages of biomedical research.

Participant: Prof. K.V. Ramana Murthy, A.U. College of Pharmaceutical Sciences

Convective absorption

- The lipid layer is interrupted by small water-filled pores with a radius of approximately 4Å and 1 molecule with a radius of 4Å or less may pass through these water-filled pores, a process sometimes termed to as "convective absorption"
- Convective absorption is related to sieving coefficient
- Sieving coefficient is indirectly proportional to the relative sizes of the pores and the molecules

Ion-pair absorption

- Highly ionized compounds form neutral complexes with endogenous ions of GIT (e.g. mucin) to have both required lipophilicity and aqueous solubility for passive diffusion

PREAMBLE

The webinar was organized by The Oxford College of Pharmacy's Department of Pharmacy Practice on "Clinical Research a Scientific Way for New Drug Development" was a fantastic opportunity for students, scholars, and teaching staff to gain a comprehensive understanding of the growing opportunities in clinical research. Featuring the expertise of Dr. Ramesh Adepu, a renowned professional with over 27 years of experience in the pharmaceutical industry, the webinar was enriched with unique insights that added significant value.

Dr. Ramesh Adepu covered several topics in the webinar, including the need for new drug development, disease targeting, drug discovery stages, clinical trial phases, good documentation practice, the importance of data, NDA, the current clinical research market, India as a preferred destination for CR, and advantages in R&D sourcing. The fact that the webinar attracted a participation of around 195 students is a clear indication of the value it provided.

It's impressive to learn that the current clinical research market investment market size value in 2020 was USD 2,064.30 million, with revenue forecast for 2025 estimated at USD 3,125.16 million, indicating a CAGR of 8.7% from 2017 to 2025. Dr. Adepu's insights into why India is an attractive destination for clinical research, citing reasons such as location attractiveness, infrastructure, communications, and other basic factors, were enlightening. For example, he highlighted India's robust healthcare system and its ability to conduct large-scale clinical trials as key advantages. India's advantages as a preferred destination for CR, such as political environment, attractive incentives, time zone attractiveness, people strength, qualifications/capabilities, cost differential, English language, type of skills, and work ethics, were noteworthy.

Overall, this webinar was not just an excellent opportunity, but a crucial one for anyone interested in the field of clinical research to gain valuable insights and knowledge. The Department of Pharmacy Practice at The Oxford College of Pharmacy must be commended for organizing such an informative and engaging event. We hope to see more such initiatives in the future, as they play a vital role in shaping the understanding and growth of clinical research.

Why New Drug Development?

- Unmet Medical needs
- These diseases do not have definitively useful therapies, and are actually or potentially life-threatening.
- Drug discovery is a process of identifying chemical entities that can be used as therapeutic agents.

PREAMBLE

The Department of Pharmaceutics, The Oxford College of Pharmacy, conducted the webinar on "Design of Experiment in Pharmaceutical Research". There were 120 participants. Dr. Harish Dureja, Director, Dept of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Centre for IPR Studies, Maharshi Dayananda University, Rohtak, Haryana delivered the lecture. The impact and use of recent technology in the field of pharmacy was discussed in this session. He discussed the basic concepts used in the Design of Experiments (DoE) since currently it is extensively used for the implementation of QBD in both research and industrial settings. In QBD, product and process understanding are the key enabler of assuring quality in the final product. Knowledge is achieved by establishing models correlating the inputs with the outputs of the process. The mathematical relationships of the Critical Process Parameters (CPPs) and Material Attributes (CMAs) with the Critical Quality Attributes (CQAs) define the design space. Consequently, process understanding is well assured and rationally leads to a final product meeting the Quality Target Product Profile (QTPP). DoE tools help to identify and explain how critical analytical parameters (CAPs) (independent variables) affect the analytical method performance characteristics (AMPC) (dependent variables) and, therefore, the analytical target profile (ATP). Also, the feedback about the session was collected from all the participants to improve the sessions that will be conducted in the mere future.

Step 3 - Risk Assessment 2: Identification of PPs and MAs

Risk Assessment after development (RA-2)
a second risk assessment is performed to identify the important input variables for the DoE

MAs & PPs
Pressure
Moisture level
Temperature
Mixing speed
Porosity

RA-2

Input for DoE

Step 1 - Categorization of Drug Properties

Quality Target Product Profile (QTPP) is a quantitative surrogate for aspects of clinical safety and efficacy that can be used to design and optimize a formulation and manufacturing process, which includes quantitative targets for:

- ▶ Indication and route of administration
- ▶ Dosage form and strength
- ▶ Container closure system
- ▶ Attributes affecting pharmacokinetic characteristics (i.e. dissolution and aerodynamic performance)
- ▶ Drug product quality criteria (i.e. sterility, purity, stability and drug release)

PREAMBLE

The NSS Committee of The Oxford College of Pharmacy, Bangalore, organized a webinar on Life skills program on international yoga day of 2021 for the students and faculty members. Due to the ongoing pandemic, the event was conducted online using Microsoft Teams, and it received 263 registrations from the college. The resource person for the event was Mr. Prasanthan, a Sahaja yoga trainer and associate architect based in Bangalore. In his lecture, he spoke about the benefits of Sahaja yoga and meditation techniques and thanked Mataji Nirmla Devi for rediscovering it as holistic healthcare for people. The session aimed to help participants awaken their dormant primordial energy (Kundalini energy) and achieve a flow of subtle, cool cosmic vibrations in the body, which nourished and rejuvenated every cell. The event concluded with a Q&A session where participants had the opportunity to ask questions about the Do's and Don'ts.

OUTCOME OF THE PROGRAMME

The event successfully promoted awareness of the importance of Yoga and Meditation, and attendees were able to experience the positive changes that come with practicing these techniques. 263 students participated in the event. Sahaja Yoga, in particular, emerged as an excellent holistic health care approach, awakening dormant primordial energy (Kundalini energy) and achieving a flow of subtle cool cosmic vibrations in the body. This nourishes and rejuvenates every cell of the body, leading to better overall health and well-being. Celebrating World Yoga Day has the potential to create a positive societal impact by promoting cultural understanding, community engagement, and a focus on health and well-being. We encourage everyone to embrace the benefits of Yoga and Meditation and join in the celebration of World Yoga Day.

PREAMBLE

The Department of Pharmaceutics at The Oxford College of Pharmacy recently organized a webinar on "Self-Understanding as the Step to Self-Branding." Approximately 130 participants attended the event, and Dr. Padmaa M Paarakh, the principal, shared a few words about the guest speaker, Prof. Nancy Johnson, Head of Corporate Relations at The Oxford Educational Institution. During the keynote address, Prof. Nancy Johnson emphasized the importance of self-awareness in personal branding. She highlighted that research suggests that when individuals have a clear understanding of themselves, they become more confident, communicate better, and build stronger relationships. Personal branding, according to her, is the core element that shapes an individual's perception in the public eye. It is a process that involves creating an image of oneself for the outside world and marketing oneself as an individual. One's brand is the story that is told about them when they are not present in the room. Moreover, Prof. Nancy Johnson pointed out that self-awareness and understanding one's strengths and weaknesses are crucial in presenting oneself effectively and building a personal brand. The feedback from the participants was collected to improve future sessions. Overall, the webinar was a success, and it provided valuable insights into the importance of self-understanding in personal branding.

PREAMBLE

The Oxford College of Pharmacy, Department of Pharmaceutics, organized an ICT skills program on Clinirex Software usage for Pharm D students. 140 students participated in the program. The speaker, Dr Baswaraj K Najwade, provided a detailed explanation how Clinirex, an intuitive software program, serves as a valuable companion for clinical professionals and Pharm D students. Clinirex's advanced 256-bit encryption ensures that clinical data is stored securely in the cloud, making it one of the most secure software available. This software's many useful features, such as easy access to e-log books, drug information, research articles, and profile addition, make it a valuable tool for pharmacy students. Furthermore, its AI-powered functionality allows students to store and access documents quickly, making it an essential tool for efficient time management. The resource person explained that Clinirex's most significant advantage was that it provides valuable insights into potential drug-drug and drug-disease interactions, which are categorized based on severity. The software also offers recommendations on how to manage these interactions, making it an essential tool for future clinical professionals. The program's success was evident from the students appreciation for the knowledge imparted to them. Clinirex software has the potential to revolutionize the way clinical data is stored and accessed, making it an essential tool for pharmacy students and clinical professionals alike.

PREAMBLE

The NSS Committee of the Oxford College of Pharmacy, Bengaluru hosted a life skill program on "SAHAJA YOGA" in the auditorium on 08/02/2020. The event was well-attended, with a total of 363 participants including faculty and students. The session was conducted by Mr. Prasanthan, a Sahaja yoga trainer and Associate Architect from Bengaluru. The session started with the talk on "Sahaja Yoga and meditation technique." During the session, he acknowledged Mataji Nirmala Devi for rediscovering Sahaja Yoga as a holistic healthcare option for people. The main focus of the event was to awaken the dormant primordial energy (Kundalini energy) that allows a flow of subtle, excellent cosmic vibrations throughout the body, nourishing and rejuvenating every cell. The event concluded with a Q&A session, where participants had the opportunity to ask questions about Do's and Don'ts regarding the Sahaja Yoga practice.
